Maximum 12 participants

Location: TBA

Have you been frustrated by how your horse photographs are coming out? In this 3 hour class, you will learn basic techniques for getting consistent, positive results photographing equines. Carol will work with you on focal length, best angles to shoot, and tricks for getting those pesky ears up. The class will be hands on working with equine models with halter, under saddle and liberty situations and she will also show you some examples of her work with horses. Bring your digital or film camera, and prepare to have fun!

Carol Walker is based in the Front Range of Colorado, and has been providing professional photography for horse owners for the last 8 years with her business Living Images by Carol Walker. She is a member of Equine Photographers Network and International Horse Photography Association, as well as Professional Photographers of America. She is currently at work on a book on wild horses due out next fall. You can view her online portfolio at www.LivingImagesCJW.com

To schedule a course: Carol is willing to travel and give this course if there is a person willing to enroll the participants and set up a location that has equine and human models who are willing to be photographed in the class. Carol will provide prints to the models and horse owners as a thank you for participating, and a 1 free enrollment for the organizer. Call her at 303-823-6642 or email cw@livingimagescjw.com for more information.

To register for the course: Send a check for $95 made out to Living Images, or a credit card # (Master Card, Visa or American Express) with expiration date and 3 digit code to: Carol Walker, 16500 N. Dakota Ridge Rd., Longmont, CO 80503
